

“My best friend died a stranger to me”

-Jayson Krause, Author

He was the best man at his wedding and gave the eulogy at his funeral, yet, author Jayson Krause experienced the crushing realization that he knew very little about who his best friend was. This led to a passionate year long quest in search of meaningful connection.

Adventurous, courageous and revealing, Krause tackles the myths of social connection and approaches random strangers from across the world in attempt to find the hidden answers. 52 People takes readers to the daring place of real connection and offers a compelling and urgent way of thinking about relationships and life.
